Cambodia, France,

The first major wave of migration to Australia was with the arrival of large numbers of Vietnamese refugees in the 1970s and 1980s. The arrival of the Vietnam War refugees have come to Australia and the number of Vietnamese migrants continues to grow.

The modern standard form of the Vietnamese language written in the Latin alphabet is called Vietnamese.

The Australian Curriculum for Vietnamese is pitched to background knowledge and skills of students in the Australian context. It is developed according to the Australian Curriculum Framework for Vietnamese to 10 (Year 7 entry) and takes into account the different background knowledge and experiences for the students.
